

Gerrit Rietveld - early Red and Blue Chair

N° 231 by Cassina - De Stijl

details

RATIONAL SCULPTURE

The red and blue chair by Gerrit Rietveld is one of the most iconic pieces of furniture in De Stijl design and a symbol of the modern design movement.

It was designed by Rietveld in 1918 and later in the 1920s was given the characteristic colors red, blue, yellow and black, inspired by the color theory of Piet Mondrian.

The chair consists of simple geometric shapes - straight lines and right angles dominate the design. It is made of wood and consists of thin slats for the frame and rectangular panels for the seat and backrest.

The backrest is painted a vibrant blue, the seat...
